PREFACE

ON behalf of the Adyar Library, I express our happiness in bringing out this volume describing the manuscripts in the Vishva-Bharati collection of the Adyar Library and Research Centre. All the manuscripts described herein were received in 1950 from Vishva-Bharati, Santiniketan, West Bengal, before it was constituted into a university. In exchange for these manuscripts which are for the most part South Indian, the Adyar Library sent to Vishva-Bharati the manuscripts in Bengali script in its possession. It was agreed at that time that the manuscripts would be preserved in a separate collection and catalogued accordingly.

We express thanks to the Government of India, Ministry of Education and Social Welfare, for making a grant available to publish this catalogue in the Descriptive Catalogue Series of our Library.

We are grateful to Dr. E. R. Sreekrishna Sarma, Professor of Sanskrit, Sri Venkateswara University, for sparing his time to complete the catalogue even after he ceased to be on the staff of the Adyar Library and Research Centre.

RADHA BURNIER

Director.

INTRODUCTION

THIS descriptive catalogue of Sanskrit manuscripts in the Viśvabhāratī collection of the Adyar Library has taken a long time to see the light. In 1956 I began compiling this catalogue on the basis of an old list. I began the work on the model of the descriptive catalogues of the old type, describing and giving extracts from each and every work in the collection. Later on it was decided to adopt the new pattern for descriptive catalogues prescribed by the Government of India, giving succinct information regarding the works, column-wise, and providing extracts wherever necessary. In 1959 I left the Adyar Library to join the Sri Venkateswara University, but continued to work on this catalogue bit by bit during the holidays and vacations which I spent at Adyar. The compilation of the catalogue was completed only by the end of 1973. I feel happy that at long last this catalogue is published.

The manuscripts in the Viśvabhāratī collection are all in palm-leaf, written mainly in the four South Indian scripts—Grantha, Telugu, Malayalam and Kannada—besides a very few in Nandināgarī and Bengali, all of which are described here. A few works in Javanese, Burmese, Kannada and Tamil have not been described. There are altogether 1264 codexes, containing 2730 works, comprising all fields of Sanskrit literature. Many of the manuscripts are very old and brittle; but most of them are well written and could be useful to research workers. There are inevitably duplications of works, but there are also some unique and hitherto unknown titles. A few notable items are listed below:

Among the Vedic works Rgvedavarnakramalakṣaṇa and its commentary (Nos. 37, 38) are not found in any of the catalogues known to me. The author of the text is Jagannātha but that of the commentary is not recorded. Taittīrīyamantraviniyoga-saṃgraha (96) by Śrīnivāsa also belongs to the same category. Āpastambaśrautasūtra-bhāṣyavṛtti-saṃgraha (405) by Nṛsiṃha, although fragmentary, breaking in the second Praśna, is also not quoted anywhere else. Śrauta-prāyaścittaprayoga by Śaṃkara-kiṃkara (497) contains only Jyotiṣtoma-prāyaścitta, but is rare. Samdhya-vandana-mantradīpikā by Nīlakaṇṭha (705) is not found in any other catalogue. Among the many kārikā-s on Śrauta belonging to the Bodhāyana or other schools, Jaiminīya-śrauta-prayogakārikā (524) and Jaiminīya-pūrvaprayoga-kārikā (624) are rare. Maṇḍapadruma, a rare work on Vedic Śulba, has been edited and published in ALB, vol. XXII, part 1.

This collection also includes the unique commentary called Upaniṣanmaṅgalābharaṇam on certain Upaniṣad-s (135, 145, 290, 296) although it is available in parts in the MSS. collection of the Tanjavur and Madras Govt. MSS. Library. Bodhānandagitā (320), giving the essence of all the ten Upaniṣad-s in metrical form in twelve chapters, is a unique work and is not known to exist anywhere else. The author calls himself Bodhānandayajvan and a disciple of Brahmānanda.

In the field of Nibandha-smṛti-s, Śāsanaratnamālikā (824), a compilation of passages from different Dharmaśāstra texts regarding the legal procedure and conduct to be followed by kings, is rare and quite interesting. A commentary on the Vālmīkirāmāyaṇa by Brahmānandatīrtha (924), although available only on the first 52 cantos of the Ayodhyākāṇḍa, is a rare one.

Bhāgavatasamgraha (1008), a brief summary of all the twelve Skandha-s of the Bhāgavata-purāṇa, and the Jaiminī-bhāgavata (1016) which relates the story of Sundarīkalyāṇam, are rare. Both are in Malayalam script and the leaves are in good condition. Poetically also they are admirable. Kṣīratnam (1056), not recorded in the New Catalogus Catalogorum is a eulogy of Kerala in the Purāṇic style. Divyadeśamāhātmyam (1067), describing holy places according to the Vaiṣṇava tradition, is different from that which is described under D 5200 in the Madras catalogue. Gurugītā (1094), mentioned as belonging to the Skāndapurāṇa, is complete and rare.

Among the Kāvya-s, Kṛṣṇavilāsakāvya of Sukumāra with the commentary of Rāmapāṇivāda (1150), is complete and in good writing. Keradaśakam (1151), ten fine verses in appreciation of the coconut, is not found in any other catalogue. Bhāratakathāprabandha (1190) in Malayalam script is also rare. Vyākaraṇodāharaṇa-kāvya (1212), though fragmentary, is very interesting as it deals with Rāma's story giving examples for the sūtra-s of Pāṇini. Kandarpadarṣaṇabhāṇa (1309) of Lokanātha is a rare work and has been described by me in ALB, vol. XXIII, parts 1-2, pp. 131-6.

In the field of Nyāya and Mīmāṃsā, Jātavedo 'dhvarin's Tattvacintāmaṇiprakāśavivaraṇa (1416), although fragmentary, is a rare work. So is the Tarkabhāṣābhāvārthadīpikā-vyākhyā by Nīlakaṇṭhadikṣita (1442). Śāstradīpikāvyaākhyā (1565) by Sūryanārāyaṇa, comprising the seven pāda-s of the tenth adhyāya, is not found anywhere else.

In the field of Vedānta, Śivarāmayati's Svānubhavaviveka-sāramananam (1723) is very rare. So is the Cidvilāsa (1789) of Amṛtānandanātha, though one copy of it is available in Tanjavur. Vāsanāpaddhati (1792) is a Śaiva work not available elsewhere.

Proceeding to Vyākaraṇa, the commentary by Cintāmaṇi on the Mahābhāṣya (1816), though fragmentary, seems to be very rare. So also are the Śabdakaustubhadūṣaṇam (1825), Pāṇiniyaparibhāṣā (vṛttivyākhyā) (1869), both anonymous, and

xvi DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF SANSKRIT MANUSCRIPTS

the Pāṇinīyaparibhāṣā (1874) ascribed to Vyāḍi. Vṛttalakṣaṇa-saṃgraha (1942) of Bhāskara is fragmentary, but rare.

Sūryasiddhāntavivarāṇa (2032) of BhūtiViṣṇu on three chapters is quite rare. So is Ācārasaṃgraha (2035) of Parameśvara. To the same category belongs Keralīyaparāśara (2043) of Ārāmadikṣita.

Among the Āgama-s, Mūrtalakṣaṇa (2139) of Padmanābha, is rare, and so also is the Somabhujagavallī (2158), 'complete in seven chapters, although a copy of the latter is available in the Oriental MSS. Library, Madras.

Among the Stotra-s, Pañcanadiśākṣaramālikā-stotram (2415), Daśaślokī (2512) of Tirumalācārya, a summary of the tenth Skandha of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa, and Rāmānuja-vibhavaṇṇa (2679) are both interesting and rare.

I have gone carefully through the leaves of these manuscripts, although in some cases, because of the condition of the leaves, it was not possible to examine them thoroughly. I acknowledge my gratitude to Pandits V. Krishnamacharya and K. Ramachandra Sarma, who with their vast experience in dealing with palm-leaf manuscripts gave me considerable help, and also to Dr. K. K. Raja for his valuable suggestions. Pandit K. T. Venkatarama Sarma has done most of the work in preparing the indexes, arranging the slips, and referring to various catalogues, and I thank him for his assistance. Sri A. A. Ramanathan has also earned my thanks for having read all the proofs and seen the work through the press.

The second volume of this catalogue contains the extracts from rare and important works described herein. I hope that this catalogue will be useful and welcomed by research scholars in the field of Sanskrit.
